WILL THE SADNESS END?

This past Sunday marked a milestone of sorts for our church, our nation, and our world. It was one year ago this past Sunday that the reality of the COVID-19 crisis began to hit home in our area. Life changed dramatically for all of us in ways that we're still grappling with a year later.

Over a half million people have died in our country alone (including many of our friends and loved ones) and we're still recovering. It has been – and continues to be – a devastating season for hundreds of millions. And yet, in the midst of this terrible time, God continues to bring about good. Over and over, He fulfills the promise we see in Romans 8:28:

“And we know that all things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are called according to His purpose.”

This past Sunday, we continued our EMOTIONS teaching series, looking at how to navigate seasons of uncertainty – like the one we continue to work through. In preparing for that message, I was reminded how often scripture teaches us that uncertainty about this life is normal.

In spite of this uncertainty, we can be certain of our God. We can be certain of His promises and His track record. We can be certain of the foundation of our salvation in Christ. And that's more than enough certainty to face even the craziest circumstances.

If you missed Sunday's service, you can catch the replay online at FBCGC.live.

This Sunday, we're turning the page to another difficult emotion... sadness. We'll be looking at Jesus' experience with sadness, His antidote for being sad, and how we can find joy alongside of Him! It's going to be a powerful Sunday and a great encouragement as we prepare for Easter Sunday.

As of today, Easter Sunday, April 4, is less than 3 weeks away. Together, we'll celebrate the resurrection of Jesus, worship Him boldly, and look at how the same power that raised Him from the grave is available to us so we can experience the abundant life.

You can worship with us in-person at our regular 11:00am service time and, for the first time, we will have multiple service times available online at FBCGC.live through our own system (whether you use Facebook or not). Plan now to attend (either in-person or online) and go ahead and start inviting your friends, family, co-workers, and neighbors to Easter @ FBC. I can't wait to see what God has in store!

Enjoying the Journey with you,

P.S. This Sunday, March 21, we'll continue our EMOTIONS series, with a message called “Lost in Sadness? Experience Joy.” Join us either In-Person or Online at FBCGC.live, this Sunday at 11:00am.

P.P.S. Spring Online Groups begin next week! If you haven't yet, sign up today! These groups meet weekly via Zoom (online) through May. Sign up Sunday on your Connection Card or online today at FBCGC.net.
